

CoMoViWo - Communication in Mobile and Virtual Work

CoMoViWo - Communication in Mobile and Virtual Work

Only two projects were granted Erasmus+ funding in Finland in 2014; the other one was a project called CoMoViWo (Communication in Mobile and Virtual Work) coordinated by TUAS.

Our job is to prepare students for the challenges of an increasingly international work environment. This is why TUAS, Manchester Metropolitan University, Universitat Politècnica de València, the International Language Association (ICC) and Gdansk University of Technology have started a project on the communication literacy needed by employees and managers to be successful in the virtual and mobile work environment at the European level.

CoMoViWo seeks to define the skills needed in virtual and mobile work in a multicultural environment; to reflect the shared communication literacy required from managers and employees; to integrate a comprehensive view of communication, cultures, new technology and virtual and mobile work life; and to develop joint training modules for higher education students and business representatives. English and Spanish will be the languages used as lingua franca in the modules.
